How did the Fund perform during the reporting period?

- For the 12 months ended December 31, 2024, the Fund performed roughly in line with its benchmark index.
- U.S. economic growth hovered around 3% on a year-over-year basis for much of the period, and consumer price inflation trended lower, falling below 3% in July. The Federal Reserve began cutting short-term interest rates in September, which boosted stock returns, as did the prospect of tax cuts and deregulation under the incoming administration.
- Each of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors recorded positive returns for the 12 months. Financials, information technology, and industrials contributed most to the benchmark's return.
