How did the Fund perform during the reporting period?

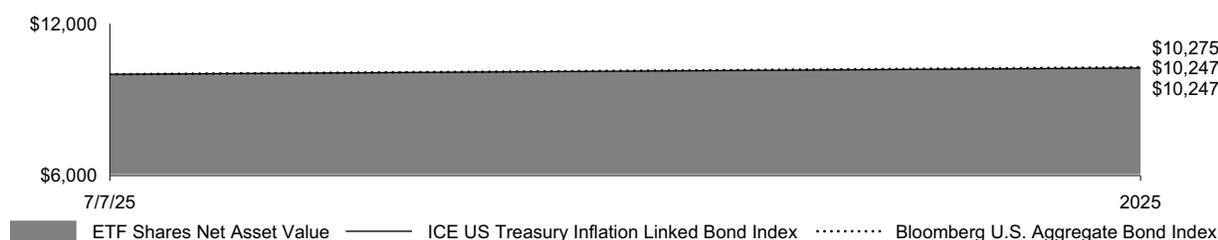

- From its inception on July 7, 2025, through September 30, 2025, the Fund performed in line with its benchmark.
- Optimism in the U.S. about deregulation, tax cuts, and artificial intelligence was occasionally tempered by market concerns about rising interest rates, stretched equity valuations, and evolving trade policies. The Federal Reserve resumed cutting short-term interest rates in September 2025 in response to an uncertain economic outlook and slowing job gains. The Fed had paused on lowering rates in December 2024 amid mixed market signals.
- The Fund seeks to track the performance of an index of the full market of U.S. Treasury Inflation-Protected Securities (TIPS). It is designed for long-term investors to generate returns more closely correlated with realized inflation. Given the Fund's longer duration relative to a shorter-duration TIPS fund, it has the potential for higher total returns but can have higher real interest rate risk.

How did the Fund perform since inception?
